Description

The newest from Barbara Reid: the story of a young mouse living in the subway, who dreams of the magical world called Tunnel's End.

Nib is a subway mouse. As a young mouse, he loved to hear the stories about Tunnel's End: a beautiful yet dangerous, roofless world. One day, Nib decides to set off, away from his dirty, crowded home, to find his dream. Along the way he meets a girl mouse named Lola, who joins him. Together, they navigate the long and dangerous tunnel, until, one night, when they have almost given up hope, they hear a small chirping sound. . . it is Tunnel's End, more beautiful than Nib ever dreamed.

Insightful reviews

Sheri Radford: The art in Barbara Reid's books is simply gorgeous, filled with fascinating little details.

Jodie: A mouse living in a subway hears stories about the end of the tunnel and decides he wants to find it.

Clairissa D: The Subway Mouse is a story about a mouse that lived in center part of the subway station had heard about the wonders of the other end of the train station. One day he developed enough courage to leave his family and travel along the subway to find the place that he had heard about. One his way to this place he ran into a girl mouse who was willing to help him in his journey. Soon after they joined the two mice found the enchanted part of the subway that they were looking for and lived happily ever after. I would use this text to help teach the elements of a story,sequencing,character traits.

Tiffany: This ebook used to be so cute! it is a couple of mouse who lives in a subway who makes a decision to make his solution to the outside, and follows the tracks, assembly up with different mouse dudes who imagine he is loopy for looking for the mythical outside. My child particularly loved it, and that i specifically loved the lovable ending.

stephanie: received this for the little boy i babysit's birthday. i've got misplaced count number of ways time and again i've got learn it outloud, yet luckily, i love the tale and the pictures. it jogs my memory of the tales i used to jot down in fourth grade, approximately this kin of mice. this is often the tale of nib, who makes a decision to go away the protection of the subway tunnels and search out a greater lifestyles at "tunnel's end" - which could or would possibly not exist. appealing story, all around, specially for brand spanking new yorkers.

Natalie Schmitt: Nib is a mouse who lives in a subway station. Nib doesn't fairly love it as a result of how noisy it is. At night, Nib hears tales of this good spot referred to as Tunnel's End. Nib units out on an experience to discover this pretty place. This e-book is excellent for sequencing and re-telling the story. The paintings during this booklet is so unique.
